

Kratom, salvia, mescaline, dmt and peyote seeds defined:

Kratom, Salvia, Mescaline, DMT and Peyote Seeds are consumed in several drugs and medicines. They are also often openly used by shamans. These substances have negative impact attached to them, therefore before consuming any of these we should all know what they are and what effects these will have on our body. What is Kratom? Kratom are the extracts taken from a tree growing in many countries of Southeast Asia such as Thailand, Malaysia and Myanmar. The leaves of Kratom are used in many herbal drugs for both low and high doses. It is also a pain killer and is used in treating diarrhea. Kratom does not have much effect in low doses but in high doses you can reach an opium like and relaxing state, which will also help you with sleeping or mental problems. What is DMT? DMT is also known as Dimethyl Tryptamine. It is also a neurotransmitter in your body. It can create visionary and deep experiences. It is usually smoked and inhaled. DMT can not be swallowed, cause it can't pass the liver, that's why it's often used in Ayahuasca among with other herbs. The effects are very strong and intense, the spiritual experiences can also help to get rid of addictions. Salvia Divinorum: Salvia is the upcoming star of the drug family. It is a herb from the species of mint. Salvia is originated from South America, southern Mexico and Central America. The plant is simply beautiful, with its large green leaves and purple and white flowers. Salvia can be used in many ways. Its leaves are chewed, causing you to go high with in 10 minutes; dried leaves can be smoked either directly or through water. Once Salvia is taken it gives you hallucinations and a dissociative effect, your mind is free from your body. A mixture with other drugs should be avoided. Peyote Seeds: These are very tiny and thorn less cacti, found in south of Texas and northern Mexico. It is used in many medicines of fever, blindness and various other diseases. Mescaline is the major ingredient of Peyote. It is extremely powerful and takes you to the most beautiful ride ever. Mescaline: Known as a witch's potion, it is derived from Peyote cacti. It is taken by mouth or as tea. Once you take it, you have to wait for some time for its reaction to occur. After an hour or so you start hallucinating, having a mystical experience which can lead to nausea and vomiting before the main experience starts. These effects stay for 6 to 12 hours. If you use it too often, a tolerance will build up quickly.
