

Will A Natural Wrinkle Reducer Actually Work?

As interest in natural cosmetics increases studies are being undertaken to test the efficacy of natural wrinkle reducer products as compared to synthetic chemical formulas. Natural products are generally proven to be more easily absorbed into our 7 layers of skin. This causes visible improvement in texture, luminosity and firmness. Restorative proteins derived from natural sources, such as functional keratin, are particularly effective in reversing the signs of aging on skin. Be alert to the difference between wrinkle filler and reducer. A filler could be something akin to spackle on a wall after all. To successfully reduce or even remove wrinkles, dark circles and bags from around your delicate eye area you'll need the latest science on your side. This laboratory proven science will bring you the best ingredients and techniques that really work. Not spackle. Nothing makes a person look or feel older than baggy, saggy, wrinkled eyes. How upsetting to peer into a mirror and be faced with such a discouraging sight. Thankfully, there are products proven to aid in the fight against gravity and time. Natural wrinkle reducer cream will work. Volunteers have tested and reported a significant reduction in wrinkles when using products with targeted ingredients such as Manuka honey, Babassu wax and extracts of Canadian algae. All these are derived from natural sources, free of fragrance, alcohol or preservatives that might cause irritation or inflammation. All of us have seen the little old ladies with spots of rouge in the middle of their cheeks and lumps of pink foundation filling the creases around their lips and eyes. Say no more. Don't go there, you beg. Fine, stay away from wrinkle filler products. What you want is a product to plump up your skin and regenerate cells. So here you go. Manuka honey is a special honey from New Zealand that contains healing properties for the skin. It moisturizes and nourishes your cells. Babassu is a light natural wax to soften and soothe your skin. It benefits both oily and dry skin and seals in natural skin oils and moisture to plump up your skin. This fills in the wrinkles naturally with new young cells. Additionally, an extract from Canadian algae will reduce wrinkles around your eyes and also stimulate new cell growth to rejuvenate your skin wherever you apply it, not just around the eyes and lips. All three of these ingredients are safe and healthy for every skin type. Another important consideration when fighting back the damage that time does to everyone equally is the question of free radicals. These are produced by the body in response to stressors such as sunlight, environmental pollution, excess heat, dry air, anxiety or smoking. Natural vitamin anti-oxidants are the best weapon to fight these ill effects. Look for vitamins such as A, C and E in the natural wrinkle reducer product you choose. And always avoid alcohol as an ingredient. It dries and irritates the skin. Quite the opposite of what you are trying to accomplish.
